Successful case description

The Generalitat de Catalunya, a pioneer in the opening of public data, relies on DesideDatum to create a stable, robust, and easy-to-use data sharing platform based on SOCRATA and FME technologies with an expert human team capable of carrying out the challenge.

A relationship model is established with the owners of the data, with the intention of feeding the data portal with the largest number of datasets, in an efficient, easy, and automated way. Providing value, as far as possible, with the creation of visualizations associated with this open data to make it more understandable for users.

In this way, the Generalitat has positioned itself as one of the reference institutions in terms of open data and, at the same time, has generated a reduction in costs in the management of data-based projects due to the fact of having a point Central to access a wide variety of data that can be easily consumed through APIs.
